OVER HUNDRED KILLED IN OCEAN COLLISION

Lumber Steamer Strikes Passenger Liner and the Latter Goes to the Bottom of the Pacific Late Saturday Night.

WIVES FAITHFULLY FOLLOW THEIR HUSBANDS

To a Watery Grave Rather Than be Separated from Them—Those Who Promptly Leaped Into the Sea Were the Ones That Were Saved.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Late reports from the scene of the collision today between the steamers Columbia and San Pedro indicate that 150 persons were drowned. On account of the barren nature of the coast where the accident occurred, definite information has come slowly.

The Columbia went down two minutes after the collision. Most of her passengers were drowned in their berths.

San Francisco, July 22.—One hundred persons are believed to have been drowned when the steamer Columbia was sunk by a collision with the lumber steamer San Pedro, off Shelter Cove. About an equal number of passengers from the Columbia escaped death by getting aboard the San Pedro. The accident occurred in a heavy fog and the Columbia went down in a few minutes after she was struck by the San Pedro. The doomed passengers had no chance to escape. Captain A. P. Doron is reported to have gone down with his ship.

Though the wreck occurred about midnight Saturday, the first news arrived here today. The San Pedro was badly damaged, but was kept afloat, and her passengers, as well as those who boarded her from the Columbia,

HUSBAND MISSING FROM HOME AND HIS WIFE IS WORRIED

Richard Giffie Has Not Been Heard From Since He Left Home to Attend a Meeting of Iron Molders Union Last Monday.

Mrs. Giffie, of 521 Wehrle avenue, is endeavoring to locate her husband who has been missing from home since last Monday evening.

Giffie is a molder and had been employed at the Wehrle foundry. He left home about 7 o'clock, ostensibly to attend a meeting of the local union of which he was a member, walking down the railroad tracks, that was the last heard of him.

Mr. and Mrs. Giffie came here

UNION DENOUNCES PUBLIC PRINTER IN RESOLUTIONS

Washington, July 22.—Declaring that Public Printer Charles A. Stille is acting contrary to the laws of the United States in inaugurating a system "of arbitrarily deducting certain sums from the pay of proof-readers as a fine for inadvertently overlooking errors in proofs read by them," the Columbia Typographical union, which in membership is the third strongest typographical union in the United States, adopted resolutions denouncing the secretary of the union to call upon Attorney General Bonaparte for an opinion as to the public printer's legal right to impose such fines. The union mailed a copy of the resolutions to President Roosevelt and to the department of justice.

Joseph F. Loftis, a member of the firm of Loftis Brothers, which is prominent in the jewelry business in Chicago, shot and seriously wounded his brother, S. T. A. Loftis.

PRESIDENT COREY HAS RETURNED RESUMES WORK

New York, July 22.—"I have come back to resume my work as president of the United States Steel corporation," said William Ellis Corey, upon his arrival on the French liner La Savoie. "I have no intention of resigning from that office. I have heard of no meeting of the directors to consider the question of asking for my resignation. I have not heard of any plan to get Mr. Alva Dinkley to take my place as president. I should have heard of it if there were such a plan on foot." Mr. Corey was accompanied by his wife, formerly Miss Mabelle Gilman.

Thick beds of asphaltum have been discovered in the Shoshone oil fields, Wyoming.

Announcement is made that the Carnegie Steel company is to completely rehabilitate the Edgar Thomson steel plant at Braddock at a cost of about $2,000,000.

EMPEROR OF KOREA WHO RESIGNED AND JAPAN'S REPRESENTATIVES IN SEOUL

SEOUL, July 22.—Defeated, deposed and threatened with exile, Yi Huiang, late emperor of Korea, is making more trouble for Japan than when he actually held the reins of power. Despite every effort by the Japanese authorities, the former emperor has undoubtedly been in constant communication since his abdication with the leaders of the anti-Japanese rioters, and is said practically to have directed the commotions.

Rumor says the present emperor, a weakling, will not remain long on the throne, and that Prince Hui Yee, the deposed emperor's second son, will be his successor. Hui Yee has long been known for his pro-Japanese sentiments. He was reported engaged to various American young women at various times, and was once knocked down by a drunken farmer at Delaware, Ohio, who mistook him for a Chinaman.

SHOT HIS WIFE HER PARAMOUR AND SISTER-IN-LAW

Herrdsburg, Ky., July 22.—"Buster" Phillips, a city workhouse keeper, shot his wife four times, three of the bullets entering her breast and the other passing through her abdomen. He then turned the weapon on Mrs. Kyle Watkins, his sister-in-law, and fired one shot at her, which entered the left side, inflicting what is thought to be a fatal wound. He then fired his last bullet at Thomas Sillee, 18, the ball entering the shoulder. Phillips is 40 years old, and for some time has suspected his 18-year-old wife of being too intimate with Sillee. For this reason he left home a week ago, but hearing that his wife and Sillee were at the Watkins home, it is said he went there purposely to end the matter by killing them. It is thought he shot Mrs. Watkins for allowing them to meet at her home. Both Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Watkins are in a serious condition.

Philippines Would Welcome Japs. Ithaca, N. Y., July 22.—The Filipino colony at the Cornell summer school is considerably agitated over what some members of the colony ascribe as the unrest among the people of the Philippines—not unlike the dissatisfaction that preceded the outbreak of hostilities against Spain. According to these natives of the oriental isles, their countrymen are quite miserable under the protection of the stars and stripes; look back longingly to the days of Spanish rule, and would welcome a Japanese invasion that might free them from American economic tyranny.

Girl Drowns. St. Louis, July 22.—After being saved twice by her escort, who placed her on the bottom of an overturned boat, Miss Ruth Ledwidge, 18, was drowned in the rapids of the Meramec river, near St. Louis, while her escort was saving a companion, Miss Olive Wineow, 19. The canoe, containing the girls and Ross Deubum, 24, was overturned while Miss Ledwidge was trying her shoe.

Coaches Thrown From Track. El Paso, Tex., July 22.—While running 30 miles an hour, the Chicago & Rock Island "Golden State Limited," bound to Chicago, was wrecked at Pasturn, N. M., 225 miles north of here. Six out of the seven coaches composing the train were thrown from the track and the engine partially derailed. The passengers were badly shaken up, but the only persons seriously hurt were two negro Pullman porters.

Magill En Route. San Diego, Cal., July 22.—Sheriff Campbell of Dewitt county, Ill., left for Clinton, accompanied by Fred Magill and the latter's wife, who go to face the charge of murdering Mrs. A. Magill of Clinton. It was learned that Miss Margaret Magill, daughter of the accused man, has arrived in Clinton. Her departure from this city two or three days ago was kept a secret.

400 KILLED IN EXPLOSION

London, July 22.—A terrible mining horror has occurred at the Toyo Ona mines, in Japan, according to a message to the Reuter Telegram Co. The dispatch comes from Tokio and says over 400 miners have been killed by the explosion.

Over a score of bodies have already been recovered. There were 471 miners at work, and only a few were able to get out. All the others are believed to be dead. Some of the bodies recovered are so mutilated that identification is impossible.

NOVEL LEGAL ARGUMENT OF LAWYER PATRICK

Ossining, N. Y., July 22.—Basing his contention on one of the most novel legal arguments ever presented in a similar case, Albert T. Patrick, convicted murderer of William Marsh Rice, is preparing for a fresh battle for freedom. Patrick outlined his views today, saying: "My application to Governor Higgins was for absolute pardon. I stated positively that I did not seek a commutation, that I would accept only a pardon, because I was entitled to it as a matter of right."

"I hold that I am confined in state prison in an illegal way, because the governor granted me something for which no application had been made. Under the constitution of the United States no man can be confined in an illegal way in a penal or other institution. Therefore I will apply for a writ of habeas corpus and I believe I will be discharged."

SERIOUSLY BURNED WERE FIVE MEN BY MOLTEN METAL

Pittsburg, July 22.—Caught under a shower of molten metal at the Homestead steel works, five men were seriously burned, two perhaps fatally, while many others received minor injuries. The men were tapping a furnace when the big ladle, containing tons of molten metal, was accidentally tipped.

KILLED HIS FATHER

Sandusky, July 22.—Crazed with drink, George Federick today shot and fatally wounded his aged father, Andrew Federick, firing five shots. Federick was captured.

FEARFUL DEED

OF MADMAN WHO KILLED WIFE, SON AND FOSTER FATHER.

He Was Finally Shot by a Neighbor Whom He Had Also Attacked.

Nimica, Mich., July 22.—Henry Seutechon, a farmer, 30 years old, living near this village, ran amuck with an ax, killing his invalid son, his wife and her foster-father. Seutechon was later shot by Henry McClellan, a neighbor, whom the crazed murderer had also attacked. The dead: Henry Seutechon, Polly Seutechon, his wife; Seutechon, his 18-year-old son; George Anning, Mrs. Seutechon's foster-father. Seutechon, after killing his wife and son, attempted suicide, gashing his throat and wrists with a razor and swallowing parts green.

DOCK GAVE WAY MEN IN RIVER FIGHT FOR LIVES

Lorain, July 22.—While 15 men were waiting on the dock this morning to take a ferry boat to the plant of the American Ship Building company, the quaying on the dock gave way and all were precipitated into the deep water of Black river. The men went into the river in a huddled bunch and a fight for life ensued in the river. Paul Musalewski, Walter Reszbenicz and Carol L. Rominski were drowned, while the others escaped to shore.

GOVERNMENT

Behind Inspection That Has Been Ordered on Pacific Ocean Steamships.

Tacoma, Wash., July 22.—After the return of the Boston Steamship company's liner Tremont, from the Puget Sound navy yard drydock at Bremerton, it was learned on good authority that the inspection of the steamer just completed by Pacific mail steamship company officials and others was made on behalf of the United States government, the men having been deputed for the work. It is said there are at least 15 vessels scheduled for inspection, the list including two American-Hawaiian liners and some of the Pacific Mail company's steamers. Reliable authority states that this inspection is being carried on by the government with a view of chartering the steamers for the government transport should occasion require it.

Mitch Murphy, a negro, shot and seriously wounded Ira Bailey, a street-car motorman, at Eastlake, a suburb of Chattanooga, Tenn. Murphy engaged a posse and was mortally wounded.

SERVICES OVER MANY VICTIMS OF THE WRECK

MANY SAD CASES THE RESULT OF THE PERE MARQUETTE ACCIDENT.

BLAME PUT UPON THE CREW

Of the Freight by Road Officials—Day of Sorrow in Ionia.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—Thirty-one persons are dead and 100 injured as the result of the collision Saturday between a Pere Marquette excursion train and a freight. All but five of the victims resided at Ionia, Mich. Of the injured eight are reported to be in serious condition. There are 61 persons at their homes in Ionia and 42 were brought to the hospitals in this city.

Mayor Bible of Ionia estimates that one in every 50 of the city's inhabitants was either killed or injured in the wreck. All day members of a citizens' committee, which was appointed when the extent of the catastrophe was realized, were at work visiting the homes of the dead and injured and arranging for medical attention and assistance where it was necessary. All of the city's normal activities have practically been suspended and every one is devoting attention to the wreck victims. One of the most pathetic cases of suffering is the Hass family, which lost its father and two sons. A widow and six children are left nearly destitute by the death of Charles, Herman and Paul Hass.

Funeral services were held over the remains of 18 victims at Ionia today. Business was suspended.

The passenger train of 11 cars, carrying the Pere Marquette shop employees of Ionia and their families to Detroit for their annual excursion, was running at high speed, probably 50 miles an hour, down a steep grade. It struck the lighter locomotive of the freight train with such force as to turn the freight engine completely around. The catastrophe occurred near New Salem. The crash of the colliding trains was heard for a great distance up and down the tracks, and many farmers working near by, realizing that a tragedy had occurred, hurried from their homes with bedding, cloth for bandages and stimulants. They joined in the rescue work, while physicians hurried to the scene from all the neighboring towns. Responsibility is put squarely upon the crew of the freight train by officials of the road. One of those who arrived at the scene of the wreck soon after the accident secured from the crew of the freight train the orders under which it was running, and which clearly showed the position of the passenger excursion train, and that the freight had encroached on the other train's running time.

Two Killed in Freight Wreck. Sebewaing, Mich., July 22.—In the second wreck on the Pere Marquette railroad in 24 hours, two trainmen were killed near here. The engine drawing an extra freight train on the Saginaw, Tuscola and Huron division, with its tender and one car, was ditched by running through an open interlocking derailing device, and Albert J. Kelley, conductor, and John O'Leary, engineer, both of Saginaw, were buried under coal from the over-tender and suffocated.

TWO MORE DEAD

Detroit July 22.—W. I. Rogers, engineer of the freight train which caused Saturday's disaster at Salem, has been placed under official surveillance at his home in Plymouth, where he is suffering from injuries, and will be arrested if he recovers.

Coroner Parker and Prosecutor Robinson announce that other arrests will follow. It transpires that the train dispatcher had 17 minutes' leeway in which to notify the operator at Plymouth that the freight train had left Salem ahead of time, but he did not do so. If he had, the excursion train could have been held at Plymouth and the wreck averted.

Banner Higgins, aged 22, a Pere Marquette employee, died in the Harper Hospital Monday making the total death list number 33. There are an even 100 injured, some beyond recovery. The Pere Marquette officials say the road will pay equitable damages to survivors of the dead and to those maimed.

Late Mrs. Perry Tanner died. She makes the 34th victim of the wreck. Prosecutor Robinson claims the Pere Marquette Saturday night burned all the coaches in the wreck. The reason, the prosecutor says, is that they were old coaches and no more suitable for carrying passenger than match boxes.

KOREA WILL TURN ON JAPAN

Subjugation of the Peninsula Will Be No Easy Task.

ADVISOR TO EMPEROR TALKS

States the Mikado Will Secure Peace
Only by the Decimation of the Korean People — Japanese Soldiers Guard Government Arsenal at Seoul—Situation to Date.

New York, July 22.—"Knowing, as I do, the Korean temperament and the policy which Japan has pursued in the peninsula, I am able to predict that Japan will secure peace there only by the decimation of the people." This is the opinion of Hombor B. Hulbert, for several years intimately associated with the Korean court and a confidential adviser to the deposed Emperor of Korea. Mr. Hulbert has just returned to the United States.

"It is hard to arouse the Koreans to the fighting point," continued Mr.
Hulbert. "They are almost infinitely patient, but drive them to desperation and they will turn on their tormentors as they did in 1892, and then nothing but extermination will give Japan peace there. But to exterminate 13-14,000,000 people or even to beat them into acquiescence will be no easy task.
And who could blame the Koreans if they should turn upon those who are trampling them to the ground? Many believe the Koreans have not enough willpower to turn upon the Japanese, but those who know them best think differ-ently. The Koreans are fast approaching the turning point and despair will arm them to resistance, even though it be suicidal. The Korean people, thoroughly aroused, could carry on a guerrilla warfare that would bankrupt Japan in three years. The enormous vested interests of Japan would fall to a shadow of their present value. Thousands of the better Japanese themselves, witnessing the desperate resistance of the Koreans a proof that they had been wronged, would demand a change of policy. The one thing that Japan fears in Korea is that the people will 'get together,' but at the same time she is doing her best to force them together."

"It is worth while asking what the Japanese expect from this forced abdication. In the first place they wish publicly to reprimand the emperor for failing to send a protest to the Koreans. In the second place it is to be the way for the setting aside of the entire dynasty and the annexation of Korea to Japan."

Situation in Korea.

Seoul, Korea, July 22.—There is some outward improvement in the situation, and General Hasegawa, commander of the Japanese troops in Korea, withdrew one of the machine guns from the palace square. He regards the situation as being now well in hand. The two government arsenals are guarded by Japanese soldiers, although the number is not large, and they are under orders to explode the magazines if they find themselves unable to defend them. The Korean troops are frequently harangued by civilian agitators who take up their stand at the entrances to the barracks.
The Koreans possess 90,000 rounds of ammunition, of which General Hase-gawa, who has only 2,300 troops in Seoul, has been unable to demand the surrender. The Ping Yang regiment, which was reported as having been disarmed, still refuses to surrender its arms or ammunition.

FEAR FRESH RIOTS AFTER SEEMING CALM

Tokyo, July 22.—The latest advices from Seoul indicate that apparent calm prevailed Sunday afternoon, but the constant influx of people from the country was causing some uneasiness.
Fresh riots were apprehended at any moment. The ministers proceeded to the palace, where the guards were doubled, and discussed the question of establishment of a separate palace for the late emperor, in accordance with usage.

THE JULY JUVENILE

The Juvenile for July is just off the press, and is being distributed to its many readers. This publication is edited by Mr. M. R. Scott, the author and newspaper man, and is rapidly growing in popularity, as is evidenced by the fact that during the past month
more than a hundred have been added to the subscription list.

An installment of a continued story is the first article of interest, followed by a number of articles of general interest.

The Juvenile wants city parks and play grounds for children and reproduces parts of Mrs. Mary A. Swan's address before the W. C. T. U.

A number of interviews on the Foraker-Taft issue with leading Newark men are given, and the magazine is well worth perusing.

MRS. DOLBY TALKS.

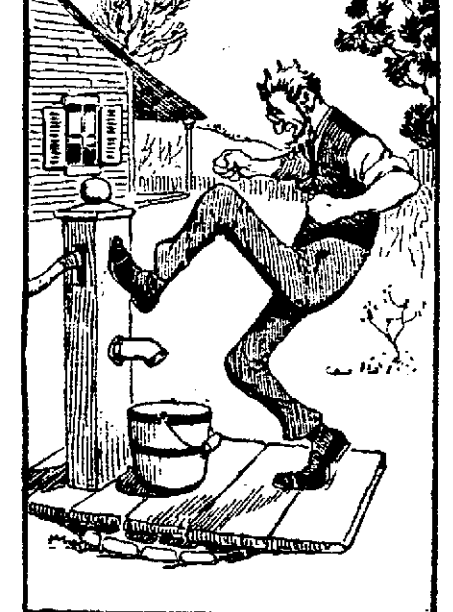

She Tackles the Deacon About
His Bad Language.

REFUSES TO ADMIT TRUTH.

Goes on Reading Testimonials While His Better Half Continues Her Lectures—Came Near Making a Full Confession.

(Copyright, 1907, by F. C. Eastment.)
Several little things had happened during the day to cause Deacon Dolby to look forward to a seance after supper had been cleared away, and when the hour finally arrived he was as ready as he could be to take what was in store for him. He sat down in his rocking chair in the sitting room, pulled off his shoes and had been reading testimonials about a new patent windmill for ten minutes when Mrs. Dolby softly began:

"Samuel Dolby, just after breakfast
this morning you went to the barn.
Something was the matter with the

"YOU JUMPED UP AND DOWN AND KICKED THE PUMP."

stable door. When it would not open you banged and kicked and muttered, and after five minutes you picked up a big stone and smashed at the door with all your might. At the same time you said something. I was too far off, and you saw me and didn't repeat it, but I want you to tell me right here, now, what it was. Certain rumors have reached my ears, and I want to know if there is any truth in them. Did you say 'Pshaw' 'Sugar' or—or did you make any reference to that place where bad people go when they die? I know how a door may bother and provoke a person. I had the kitchen door stick with me once, and I hauled off and kicked it and almost said something.
You had on a collar that was choking
you and was complaining of the earache when you went out, and if you really did forget yourself for once I can find an excuse for you. Throw yourself on my mercy, Samuel, and tell me what you said."

Deeply Interested.

The deacon had reached testimonial
No. 4, and he became deeply interested and forgot to answer the question.
Had it been otherwise he might have been compelled to admit that his exclamation had been neither "Pshaw" nor "Sugar" in it. Mrs. Dolby sat looking at a three-quarter view of him for two or three minutes and then continued:

"At the dinner table today I asked you to pass the fried eggs. The plate was hot, and you burned your fingers and dropped it with a crash. It was bad enough to have the plate broken and the contents spilled over the tablecloth, but that was nothing to what you said. As the plate fell you yelled.
As I didn't say anything at the time, you probably thought I didn't pay attention, but I want you to know that I did. Samuel Dolby, you are a man fifty-nine years old, a deacon of the church and supposed to be a living example before the world, and yet when you burned your fingers you yelled 'Thunderation!' Don't deny it, sir.
I not only heard it, but I wrote it down on the pantry door as soon as I got up.
It will remain there as long as we live in this house, and I shall never see it without having cold chills go over me.
What have you got to say for yourself?"

He had nothing whatever to say, but something like a smile appeared at the corners of his mouth. He was thinking what he would have said had he stubbed his toe instead of burning his fingers. He could have defended the word "thunderation" as perfectly proper under all occasions of sudden excitement, but before he had made up his mind to do so Mrs. Dolby went on:

Fell Downstairs.

"At 3 o'clock this afternoon I asked you to go up into the garret and get down my quilt frames while I went over to see Mrs. Green about fall pickles. Just as I returned you fell downstairs with such a clatter that for a moment I thought the house had been struck with a cyclone. I was so excited and I came so near fainting away that I don't remember what you said, but I know you yelled out at least four times. Samuel, I want you to tell me exactly what you said. It was something dreadful, but perhaps under the circumstances I can excuse it, and you can make a fresh start. I know that a fall downstairs is a sudden thing, and it is liable to throw even a deacon off his balance. Did one of your expressions refer to the bad place, Samuel?"

All four of his yells were directly connected with the locality mentioned, as he distinctly remembered, but the deacon didn't propose to enter into any arguments or discussions. He had said what he had said, and if Mrs.

Dolby had any doubts about it then all the better for him, and he had made a safe escape of it. He tried his best to become deeply interested in testimonial No. 6, which stated that the None Such windmill only needed the breath of a sleeping babe to set it in motion, and after hearing a few sighs over the general situation Mrs. Dolby brought forward the last offense.

Shouted Three Different Times.

"When I was ready to set about getting supper I asked you to bring me in a pail of fresh water from the well.
You went out with the pail, and I suddenly heard some one shout out. I went to the door and found you lying on your back on the ground. You had struck your toe against the soap kettle and fallen down. I didn't say anything, Samuel—not a word. I don't think you even saw me. I am not asking you what you said when you fell down, because I think it was 'Oh, my!' but what I want explained is what you said later on when you found the pump stuck fast. When you had worked away at the handle and the water wouldn't come you jumped up and down and kicked the pump and shouted, '—it— it— it!' three different times. I was having a chill, and my fingers were in my ears, and so I didn't catch the words, but I must know. You must confess to me and trust me to forgive you if I can.
What does a man say when he grabs the pump handle and jumps up and down and looks red in the face? If you don't speak right up and tell me I shall think the very worst—that is, I do think the very worst now. If one of the neighbors should run in to borrow some saleratus I don't know how I could look her in the face. I shall keep thinking and thinking after I get to bed, and there will be no sleep for me unless this matter is cleared up."

But for a slight incident Mrs. Dolby might have entered into a full explanation and had the whole thing over with. His eye caught sight of a shirt button on the floor, and he stooped and picked it up and gazed at it so long that Mrs. Dolby forgot the question she had asked and said:

"And there's another thing, Samuel, while I think of it. A week ago one morning while you was milking the cow she hauled off and kicked you.
You went off the stool and your back and lay there for two or three minutes.
Then you got up and pounded her with the stool. Every time you pounded you said something. I was down cellar looking over the pickles and didn't hear it, but Mrs. Harrison says she saw and heard everything and didn't get over shivering until sundown.
What was it you said? If you will throw yourself upon my mercy and tell me the truth, I'll agree not to apply for a divorce."

The deacon laid down the circular as if he intended to make a full confession of the affair and depend upon Mrs. Dolby's wisely heart to forgive him, but after a moment's thought he changed his mind and let his eyes fall upon the last testimonial. It was only ten lines long, and he read it over three times, while she waited for his answer amid deep silence. By and by he yawned and stretched and got up on his feet, and, going over to the clock, he wound it up and carelessly observed:

"If you are going to make soft soap tomorrow, I guess we'd better get to bed a little early tonight."

NEW PUMP STATION

To be Built at Homer by the Ohio
Fuel Supply Company in the Near Future.

The Ohio Fuel Supply company will soon begin excavating at Homer for a duplicate natural gas pumping plant equal in all respects to the one now there. Contracts for the work have been let and the new pumping plant will be completed before the snow flies.

When the new plant is completed the company will have six engines of 1,000 horse power each at Homer and the equipment will be capable of pumping 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day through the mains. With this equipment, General Manager Garad says that no matter how strong the demand is on the company the coming winter there will be no trouble with the gas. The company has been doing extensive field work this year and has drilled in some large gas wells.

many parts of Ohio suffering ex-

WAR VETERANS

Are Dying Off Rapidly—Thousands Departed During the Past Year.

Columbus, July 22—Almost a hundred years have passed since the second war with England, the war of 1812, but Uncle Sam still pays pensions for services then rendered by American soldiers. From the Columbus pension office alone, as shown by the report just completed for the year ending June 30, 41 pensioners draw pay from the government. All are widows, the last surviving soldier so far as this office is concerned, having died several years ago.

The old soldiers of Ohio, now scattered throughout the country, are passing away with each year, and the report for this state for the year just ending gives 4574 death. Many of these, of course, were soldiers' widows, but a great number were old soldiers themselves. At the beginning of the year there were on the pension roll 98,068. Now there are only 95,892. The number who died would make the number smaller than this, but transfers have caused the difference.

The total disbursements for the year were $14,636,797. This is a decrease from the disbursement in 1906, when the total was $14,792,262.13, of approximately $155,000.

Czar of All the Tobaccos

JAMES B. DUKE, HEAD OF A MIGHTY TRUST THAT UNCLE SAM IS FIGHTING.

Like Napoleon In His Methods, He Rules the Tobacco World
With Autocratic Power—Not a High Roller, and Everything is Business With Him—Poured Millions in Advertising as Napoleon Poured Blood—Never Touches Liquors and Lives Like an Emperor In Lordly Splendor.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

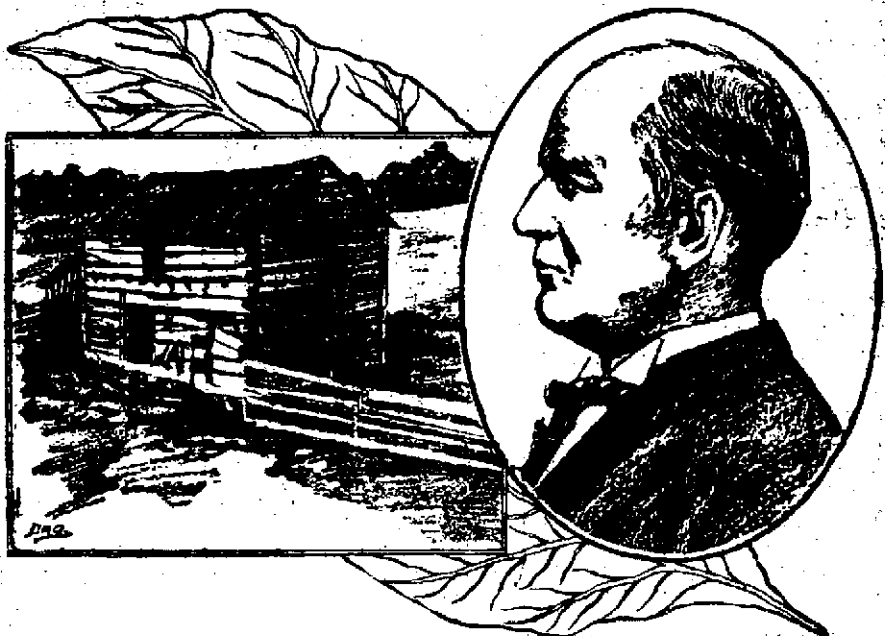

ONCE more Uncle Sam has entered the lists against the tobacco trust. Time alone will tell whether he has bitten off more than he can chew. It appears, at any rate, that considerably the biggest chew Uncle Sam has bitten off thus far in his trust busting efforts is indicated by the petition filed in New York against the American Tobacco company and sixty-three other concerns, constituting the worldwide combination in restraint of trade which the government proposes to dissolve. Twenty-nine individuals are named in the petition. Against some or all of these persons criminal prosecutions may result. That the fight will be fierce and furious, though by no means fast, is a conclusion foregone.

Sugar, steel and oil are necessities in modern civilization. Tobacco is quotations, perhaps considerably more. It is set forth in the government's petition that unless the progress of tobacco consolidation is checked this trust will control the entire manufacturing and distributing trade of the world in tobacco industries. That in brief is just exactly what James B. Duke set out to do when he organized the American Tobacco company seven years ago.

This man Duke is a curious study. He is the sort of man who a few years ago was held up to aspiring youth as a person to emulate. But in latter years a great light has blossomed and shed its rays into dark places. Any Sunday school teacher nowadays who ventured to suggest Duke to his class of boys as an example in life would get a certain lecture from the superintendent.

Morally Mr. Duke—always excepting business methods—is not a monster in any sense. It is said that he never touches intoxicating liquors. He smokes cigars, and he chews tobacco, one of his own plug brands, and spits like a roustabout. When he was on trial in the United States courts ten years ago under indictment in connection with his trust methods a reporter declared that he expected in the courtroom spitting twelve times in as many minutes. But in this industriously chewing one of his own brands he simply adheres to his lifelong rule purely a luxury. "We could do without tobacco. Many of us do. But many of us don't and won't. Rockefeller and Carnegie and Havemeyer monopolized necessities. Duke monopolizes a luxury. This distinction should not be ignored."

"Waterloos Are Still Possible."

Late in the eighteenth century a man named Bonaparte set out to conquer Europe and rule it. He very nearly achieved his ambition. Then came Waterloo. Late in the nineteenth century a man named Duke set out to conquer the tobacco trade throughout the world and rule it. He has more nearly succeeded in this ambition than did Bonaparte in his. But Waterloos are still possible.

Napoleon Bonaparte and "Buck" Duke employed the same general plan of campaign. Napoleon first made himself master of France, but that was not enough to satisfy him. Italy and Spain and other countries were doing fairly well in their own way. Napoleon wanted to run them. He coerced them, beat them down, bruised and battered them, until they submitted to his protection in order to preserve their remnant of vitality.

Duke was the head of a big tobacco firm, but that was not enough for Duke. Other big tobacco firms were doing very well. The Lorillards, the Drummonds, Liggett & Myers and many others there were. Duke wanted to run them himself. He went after them, beat and bruised them and battered them down, and at last they came into his tobacco empire to save themselves from absolute extirpation.

Big Change In Conquest Methods

The man Bonaparte used armies of men to kill other men in accomplishing his purpose. The man Duke used armies of dollars to put the dollars of others out of commission. Millions in men for Napoleon, millions in money for Duke. In the eighteenth century millions of money could not have done what Napoleon did. In the nineteenth century millions of men could not have done what Duke did. The fact indicates a mighty change in methods of conquest.

Duke's tobacco trust holds or controls securities approximating the value of $400,000,000 at present market to do everything possible to help his business along.

Mr. Duke is not a high roller. He never had time, even if he had the inclination, which apparently he hadn't. He was so busy building up his tobacco empire that he never had time to marry until he was forty-eight years old. Then he evidently lacked the time to consider the step thoroughly, for he found it necessary only nine months later to sue for divorce and for the best of reasons. He married Mrs. Lillian N. McCredy, a grass widow, in the autumn of 1904 and divorced her the next summer. Now Mr. Duke, it is rumored, is about to marry the widow of the late William Inman of Atlanta.

Pooh Bah of Tobacco.

The fact that the Duke tobacco empire has grown from a very small seed does not signify that any other boy should or could go and do likewise. Only one man at a time can be president of the United States. Only one man can be the Pooh Bah of tobacco.

James B. Duke began his career shortly after the close of the civil war, when the era of gigantic trade development began. He was born on a threadbare old farm near Durham, N. C., fifty years ago. His father was Washington Duke, who opposed secession, but was conscripted into the Confederate army and served throughout the war. Before going into the army he sold his farm to a neighbor, to be paid for in leaf tobacco at the close of the war. But the neighbor was as poor as Duke, so the latter got his farm back. Tobacco was about the only thing he could raise on the land. With a capital of 50 cents and two blind mules Washington Duke began raising tobacco and manufacturing it for the local trade. The first factory was a shabby old barn on the place. That was the humble birthplace of the $400,000,000 trust. James B., the youngest boy, started in the tobacco line when he was eight years old as helper to his father.

Soon Became the Boss.

When "Buck," as his cronies called him, was eighteen years old he was taken into the firm, which had branched out and built a small factory in Durham. The youth preferred a sixth interest in the business to a college education, which his father offered him. Before many years he was the boss. It is related that when the firm was making $200,000 a year and there were five partners James B. insisted that he and the others should draw $166.66 a month and no more. All the rest went into the business. Every thing was business with James B.

Duke appeared in New York in 1889 to open an office and conduct the Durham establishment from that city. He lived in a cheap lodging house, paying $3 a week for his room. Later when his business was earning a great deal more he moved into a two dollar room. The dollar thus saved he needed in his business. At a later period when the bachelor had a stable of horses he occupied apartments in the second story of his stable. There was no high flying for "Buck" Duke. That tobacco empire was yet in the future, but Duke saw it just as plainly as he saw the lamp post across the street. He worked steadily and surely.

The American Tobacco company was organized in January, 1890. At first it was known as the cigarette trust. Duke of course was the head of it. He built it. Five concerns were consolidated to make the American Tobacco company. They were W. Duke, Sons & Co., Allen & Ginter, the Kinney Tobacco company, W. S. Kimball & Co. and Goodwin & Co. How Duke got them into his hands may be illustrated by one instance of his methods. Allen & Ginter were his chief competitors. Duke went to Major Ginter in Richmond and proposed a consolidation. Ginter declined. Then he proposed the purchase of the Allen & Ginter business. Ginter laughed. He told the young man:

"You haven't got money enough to buy us, and you can't borrow money enough."

"We are making $400,000 a year out of our business," replied Duke, "and if necessary we'll spend every cent of it in advertising."

Spent Millions In Advertising.

This made Major Ginter wince. The Duke methods of advertising already had hurt the major's firm. Duke poured millions in advertising as Napoleon poured blood. He says himself that in his career he has spent at least $50,000,000 in advertising. Only a small portion of this went to the newspapers. Much of it went to billboards. Much more went in the shape of lithograph pictures of pretty girls which Duke placed in his cigarette packages. One of the Duke exploits was to give away 80,000 chairs, costing 50 cents apiece, with cigarettes.

Old timers in the tobacco business and in other lines advised the young man that he was plunging headlong to ruin. But Duke plunged right along. As prizes to smokers of pipe tobacco he wisely offered shaving mugs, clocks and bedroom sets. Pipe smokers are homelodies. Cigarette smokers, generally speaking, are "Johnnies," and the pictures of actresses caught them. Duke understood human nature.

Duke went after the Allen & Ginter people with a deluge of advertising ideas. Allen & Ginter soon came in out of the wet. With them came in the Kinney Bros. and the other great cigarette and smoking tobacco firms.

Advertising seemed to pay so well that a new firm sprang up to capture some of the cigarette trade through like methods. Do you remember the Admiral cigarette? The new concern made the Admiral and advertised it with astonishing boldness. Just as the millions were getting ready to pour in the Admiral people discovered that they were up against a stone wall. Big orders for their goods were canceled. The cigarette trust had gone to the dealers throughout the country and said to them something like this:

"We make eighteen or twenty brands of cigarettes for which our advertising methods have created a great demand. You handle them all and make money out of them. Now, if you sell the Admiral you shan't sell any of our goods. See?"

He Walked the Plank.

The dealers saw. The Admiral walked the bridge no more; he walked the plank. It was all very simple, but very serious. Anybody could make cigarettes, but if he couldn't get anybody to handle them what was the use? The Duke of Durham held all the aces in that game.

Having conquered the cigarette world, Duke looked about and saw the chewing tobacco world. He went after that. The Lorillards of Jersey City and the Drummonds and Liggett & Myers of St. Louis fought him fiercely for about seven years, but eventually had to knuckle under. Scores of smaller concerns were forced into the fold. Duke practically owned the American trade in cigarettes, pipe tobacco and chewing tobacco. Then he crossed the ocean. He fought the British tobacco interests to a standstill. The British-American Tobacco company was formed, the rest of the world was divided up between the American and European interests in the combine, and Duke's tobacco empire was well high universal.

But don't forget the cigar. Remember that the cigar is the aristocrat of the tobacco realm. Duke went after the cigar last of all. The United Cigar Stores company now has more than 500 stores in the principal cities of this country, controlled by the trust and selling nothing but trust goods. This concern is rapidly killing off small cigar stand competition. The United States government devotes a special section to the "United" stores in its complaint against the trust.

Meanwhile Emperor Duke lives in lordly splendor at his country estate near Somerville, N. J., where he owns 2,500 acres of land, every acre landscaped at vast expense and every building on the place constructed of costly stone. He is fifty years old, has $500,000,000 or so, and his millions are increasing faster than his years.

REAL TURRET HEROES

Georgia's Crew Point to Ensign Toaz and Boatswain Murray.

IN PERIL, CHEERED UP OTHERS

Men in Charge of Handling Room Crew Credited With Shutting Flames From Magazine—Captain McCrea Tells of Man Who Prevented Far Greater Disaster.

Among the men of the battleship Georgia those regarded as the real heroes of the recent turret explosion, costing nine lives of the Georgia's crew, are Ensign W. H. Toaz of New York and Boatswain E. A. Murray of Wisconsin, who had charge of the crew in the handling room, twenty-five feet directly beneath the turret, says a Boston special to the New York World.

There were 400 pounds of powder in the handling room, and the magazine door was open when the explosion occurred. Sparks and flames shot downward from the turret through the shutter, which was not closed tightly. These men pushed part of the powder, which was in four bags, into the magazine and part into a gangway, closed the gangway door and the slide door of the magazine, put out the sparks which had dropped from above and then calmly awaited their fate with those who were shut tight in the magazine.

They didn't know what was going to happen next, and they were not aware of what had really happened twenty-five feet above. They knew an explosion had occurred. Then there followed the groans of the wounded and dying. What they feared most was that both the magazine and the handling room would be flooded and all hands in them be drowned. There were long and critical moments for the imprisoned men, but Ensign Toaz and Boatswain Murray cheered them up, and all were released five minutes after the accident. Some were almost suffocated.

Captain Henry McCrea of the Georgia told the story of the disaster as follows:

"I was on the bridge making the run for the practice. I was taking observations of each shot. As shot after shot was a hit from the eight inch guns I saw we were beating the records of the other ships of the fleet. On the bridge I could hear the command from the after turret, so I knew when the next shot was coming.

"I heard the shout 'Fire!' but there was no shot, and then I saw men running aft, and quickly, the fire hose that is always laid out in readiness when there is firing going on was manned.

"I rushed to the after bridge, near the turret, to see what was the matter. The water was already being poured into the turret. The boatswain and Midshipman Gravecroft led the way for their men with the hose. I tell you, there was courage! No man knew what had happened, and no man knew into what danger he might be rushing. But those men never thought of self or danger. That brave act will look well on their record.

"Then they began to bring out the men. One of the first was the one in whose hands was the powder when it flashed. He was laid down on the top of the lower turret with a blanket under his head. I went to him. I could not recognize him. His hands were burned to the bone. The flesh was gone. With these hands raised above his chest and the tips of the fingers bent toward each other I could hear him whisper: 'O God! O God! O God!' He could not move his lips enough to utter other words.

"I bent closer and said to him, 'My dear fellow, God has heard your prayer.' He was breathing, but in short gasps, and soon died. The gases from smokeless powder are terrible. That's what kills. The external burns were hideous enough, but to breathe that stuff is fatal.

"One man in that turret was not hurt—Midshipman Kimball—and I do not understand how he could have escaped. He helped take out the men. He, too, showed grit after the shock he had had. Lieutenant Goodrich set an example to his men that none but a courageous officer could set when he plunged right into the flame and gases to lead the way to safety. I told his father, Rear Admiral Goodrich, that it was such officers that made a great navy. His example will not be forgotten.

"Probably one little act, or, rather, one great act of one of the men, prevented a far greater disaster. He enlisted as 'George Miller of Memphis, ordinary seaman; no home, no kin,' and died as a result of his bravery. He and one other stood by the second gun that had just been loaded. The last powder bag that had been put in was protruding a little from the gun. When he saw the dash instead of dashing for the ladder to save himself he crowded home the charge in the gun and with the help of the other men got the gun closed tight before the flame reached the bag.

"If the flame had touched that bag there would have been an awful explosion, for the powder was confined in the gun and would not have flashed as the other did, but would have exploded. Not a man in the turret would have been left alive, whatever other damage might have been done. That man gave his life for the others.

"Since we went back to the target grounds the men have been shooting better than before the accident. We haven't finished practice, and we are going back to the targets and break the record."

WHERE THEY WILL GO INTO CAMP FOR GUARD DUTY AND TARGET PRACTICE.

Said to be One of the Finest Camps Ever Occupied by the National Guard.

The Fourth regiment of the Ohio National Guard, the headquarters of which are in Columbus, left Sunday morning for its annual encampment at the new rifle range at Camp Perry.

CAPTAIN HARRY G. SMART.

Ottawa county. Colonel Charles S. Ammel will be in command and besides the band of 28 members, will muster about 500 officers and men.

Company G, of this city, under command of Captain Harry G. Smart and First Lieut. Harry W. Browne and Second Lieut. Lyman Beecher, with forty-five men, left this city on Sunday morning at 8:10 o'clock, over the Pan Handle for Columbus, where they were joined by companies A, B, C and I, of Columbus; E, of Marysville; M, of Washington; C, H, of Chillicothe, and F, of Circleville.

Major Elmer S. Blizard of Newark was in command of the first section of the train which left Columbus at 10 a. m., the party including the headquarters officers of the regiment. The second section followed as soon as the first was out of the way.

Company K of Delaware boarded the second section, leaving Delaware at 10:45 a. m. Company L, of Canal Dover, was picked up at Bellevue by the second section at 1:05 p. m.

The train ran to Sandusky via the Pan Handle and transferred there to the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern. The troops reached the camp early Sunday afternoon.

The Columbus field and staff officers of the Fourth are Colonel Chas. S. Ammel, commanding; Lieutenant Colonel Byron L. Bargar (retired) to serve in place of Lieutenant Colonel Benson W. Hough of Delaware whose son is dangerously ill; Major George S. Marshall, Captain Miletus Garner, treasurer and adjutant; Captain Bertram Jones, quartermaster; Captain Parin B. Montypenny, commissary; First Lieutenant Max Goldsmith, battalion adjutant; Chaplain John Hewitt, Columbus.

Capt. W. H. Knauss of this city, of the Fourth's hospital corps, accompanied Company G. The Fourth will return next Sunday.

day and the week will be devoted exclusively to target practice and guard duty, each company to spend two days on the range and two days on guard duty.

About one year ago Camp Perry, consisting of 400 acres, was purchased by the state for the Ohio National Guard for the sum of $25,000. At that time it was a broad expanse of green meadow.

The topography of the proposed camp was irregular and months of hard grading work was the task immediately presented to the guardsmen.

True, there were the blue waters of Lake Erie close at hand into which could be drained the sewage of the camp on top of the gentle slopes. But it was plain to be seen that nature had not provided for the best sanitary conditions, and money was obtained for a modern sewage system. Plans were at once drawn and within two or three weeks the pumping station and sewerage system will be in operation. The plant, including a filtering tank, will cost $30,000. Water and drain pipes are in position all over the grounds and in convenient places are running water hydrants. The water is drawn from the lake and is thoroughly filtered.

The camp is also equipped with telephone service, local among the tent quarters, and long distance connected with the Port Clinton exchanges. The regulation field telephone is in use operated by the signal corps, and is very useful in issuing orders to field officers from headquarters.

In constructing Camp Perry nothing has been overlooked in making the place a healthful military resort. Perfect sanitation is a principal aim of the guardsmen. Ground will be broken this week for a garbage incinerator near the pumping station, and it is expected that the plant will soon be in operation.

HAYWOOD TRIAL NEARING AN END WITH ARGUMENTS

ATTORNEY RICHARDSON MAKES POWERFUL ARRAIGNMENT
FOR HIS CLIENT

DARROW CLOSING FOR DEFENSE

And Senator Borah Will Have the Last Word for the Prosecution
in Famous Case.

Boise, Ida., July 22.—The decision of Presiding Judge Wood taking from the jury all evidence relating to deportations in Colorado and the employment of detectives to harass the Western Federation of Miners, constituting the showing by the defense of a counter-conspiracy, has necessarily limited the arguments of the defense to the evidence introduced by the state corroborative of Orchard and the impeachment of Orchard by the defense. Argument in defense of Haywood was begun today, E. F. Richardson making the opening address. The Denver attorney, who with Clarence Darrow of Chicago, has taken a leading part in the defense, expects to speak eight or ten hours. It is probable, therefore, that Mr. Darrow will not commence his closing argument before Wednesday morning. The last word will come from Senator Borah, who will speak probably on Friday, closing up the state's side of the case. Judge Wood will charge the jury on Friday afternoon or more likely on Saturday morning, and a verdict is expected by Saturday night. Opinion is divided as to the probable result.

Mr. Richardson takes the position that Haywood has not been connected with any of the crimes to which Orchard has confessed, and that the alleged co-conspirator has not been corroborated as required by the law of conspiracy. This will involve a review of all the evidence from the period of trouble in the Coeur d'Alene district in 1899 down to the murder of Steunenberg by Orchard in 1905. He presented the legal side of the position of the defense at every point and dissociates Haywood and the Western Federation from all knowledge of or participation in the crimes in which Orchard earned the title of "boss killer."

Mr. Richardson argues from the evidence that Orchard was not present at the blowing up of the concentrator at the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine in 1899; and that therefore his evidence in this matter is impeached and worthless. He claims that the explosion at the Victor mine in Colorado and the killing of Beck and McCormick was an accident, with which Orchard had no connection; that the blowing up of the Independence depot in Colorado, where 14 men were killed, was the result of a scheme to create public feeling against striking miners, and that the killing of the nonunion miners was not intentional; that Orchard had no connection with it, or if he had, that Haywood had no knowledge beforehand of what was going on.

The killing of Lyte Gregory in Denver, Mr. Richardson places at the door of personal enemies of Gregory, who was engaged in strike-breaking. The Goddard and Gabbert bombs, concerning which so much has been said, will not be considered by the defense as seriously bearing on the case, but at same time claim that if such bombs were made and planted the Western Federation of Miners had nothing to do with them. The same disavowal of connection will be argued as to the Bradley explosion and the Steunenberg murder itself. From first to last Mr. Richardson takes the ground that Orchard, having foully murdered Steunenberg, has woven the members of the Western Federation into his story at the behest of Captain James McFarland and Governor Gooding of Idaho, under promise of immunity.

MR. RICHARDSON PLEADS BEFORE HAYWOOD JURY

Boise, July 22.—"Are you going to hang this defendant upon the unsupported evidence of a self-confessed murderer? It has been his fortune to stand in the very front of the worst labor troubles of his state. His attitude might have been right, possibly wrong; I cannot say."

With this opening sentence Richardson took up the initial argument for the Haywood defense in closing its case. Judge Wood announced that from now on he would hold morning and night sessions. Richardson ridiculed the state's claim regarding the Steunenberg murder incident, declaring it was a cold blooded assassination which was planned and consummated by Harry Orchard, whose motive was revenge. He defended William D. Haywood's political activity, declaring it was guaranteed by law and that his activity was due entirely to a desire to benefit the laborer working for wages.

Big Liner Aground.
Bremerhaven, July 22.—The North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II, while coaling, suddenly listed. The water poured into her bunkers and boiler compartments through the open coal ports and the vessel careened and lay on her side on the bottom. When the tide was low her bow rested on a bank, but with the rising of the tide she slipped from that position and keeled over. After some delay the steam pumps were set to work to free the vessel of water. The cabins do not appear to be much damaged, as little water reached them, but the ship can not be ready to sail, the company announces, for several days at the best. Meantime the Kaiser Wilhelm's full list of passengers for Tuesday's sailing must be transferred to other liners.

EXCESSIVE

Are Claims of Preferred Powers and President Castro of Venezuela
Will Repudiate Them.

Washington, July 22.—Interesting developments are promised in the near future in connection with the settlement of the indebtedness of Venezuela to what are known as the "nonpreferred powers" under The Hague arbitration of 1903. On the first of the present month President Castro paid the last installment of the judgments assessed by The Hague tribunal in favor of the "preferred" or blocking powers, meaning Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Under the terms of the arbitration the claims of the other powers party to the case, namely, America, France, Spain, Belgium, The Netherlands, Sweden and Norway and Mexico, are to be discharged by a series of payments based on the segregation of 30 per cent of the customs receipts of the ports of Laguayra and Puerto Cabello. But advices have been received that Venezuela insists on repudiating the awards of the arbitrators in two cases, from which trouble may arise. These are, first, the claim of the General company of Caracas (a Belgium corporation operating the waterworks, and second, the Martinez claim, preferred by Mexico, in both cases the Venezuelan protest being based on the allegation that the judgments were excessive.

Pittsburg, July 22.—John J. Wallace, a well-known business man of this city, is dead with a broken neck; his wife is dying at her home with internal injuries, and J. S. Henner and wife, friends of the Wallaces, are in a serious condition, as a result of an accident to their motor car, which plunged over a 150-foot embankment on the road to Butler. About five miles out from this city the chauffeur stopped the car to inquire as to the direction to Butler. The car started without apparent cause and the chauffeur jumped upon the side step of the machine, but before he could get control the machine with the entire party leaped over the embankment and landed in a tree.

Automobilists Fatally Burned.
New York, July 22.—Dr. Edward J. Gallagher, a New York physician, was burned to death in an automobile accident on Long Island, while his fiancée, Miss Helen Madigan, who accompanied him, was perhaps fatally injured, the machine being struck a glancing blow by a fast Long Island railroad passenger train at Jamaica, L. I. The machine was thrown a considerable distance, and turned over upon its occupants. A moment later the gasoline tank exploded and shot burning oil over the half-stunned motorists.

MANNERCHOR FROM GLOUSTER VISITS NEWARK

The Gloucester Mannerchor of Gloucester, were entertained Saturday and Sunday by the Brewery Workers of this city. The society, thirty strong, with the entertainers, danced with their friends at the Music Hall Saturday evening. Refreshments were served and all had the time of their lives. Sunday was spent at the Encampment grounds where they rendered some very beautiful music. Good things to eat and drink were in abundance and all in attendance enjoyed the day hugely.

Mr. John Feneken, Charles Vogelmeier, Mr. Andrae, and Mr. Cramer of the committee on entertainment, acquitted themselves with great credit as hosts, and the Gloucester people left the city late Sunday night with nothing but praises for Newark and her people.

BROKER TELLS OF FATAL AUTO CRASH

FATAL AUTOMOBILE WRECK IN OCEAN AVENUE

New York, July 22.—Chapman Ropes, who was seriously injured in a collision between two automobiles in which Thomas Donovan, a chauffeur, was killed in the Ocean Parkway, told the story of the accident while lying on a cot in the Coney Island Hospital yesterday afternoon.

It was reported at first that Mr. Ropes, who is a broker at 44 Broadway, would die from his injuries. Yesterday physicians stated that he would probably recover.

"In company with Francis B. Kavanaugh, I left Manhattan Beach for a ride to Coney Island," said Mr. Ropes. "When we started back I thought I would take a little run up the boulevard. We rode up Ocean Parkway and then turned to come back."

"On the way back one of the wheels on the rear wheels came off and we had to stop to put on another one. We were there in the roadway nearly an hour.

We had only gone a short distance when suddenly an automobile loomed up directly in front of us. I can't say for a certainty whether there were any lights on the other machine.

"Before I could stop or turn to one side the car was on us and there was a crash. I recovered consciousness in the hospital."

Van Patterson's aggregation of "Medicine Men," otherwise known as the S. S. S.'s, were taken into camp Sunday afternoon before one of the largest Sunday audiences of the season, and their scalps for the time being are now dangling from the bells of the Molders.

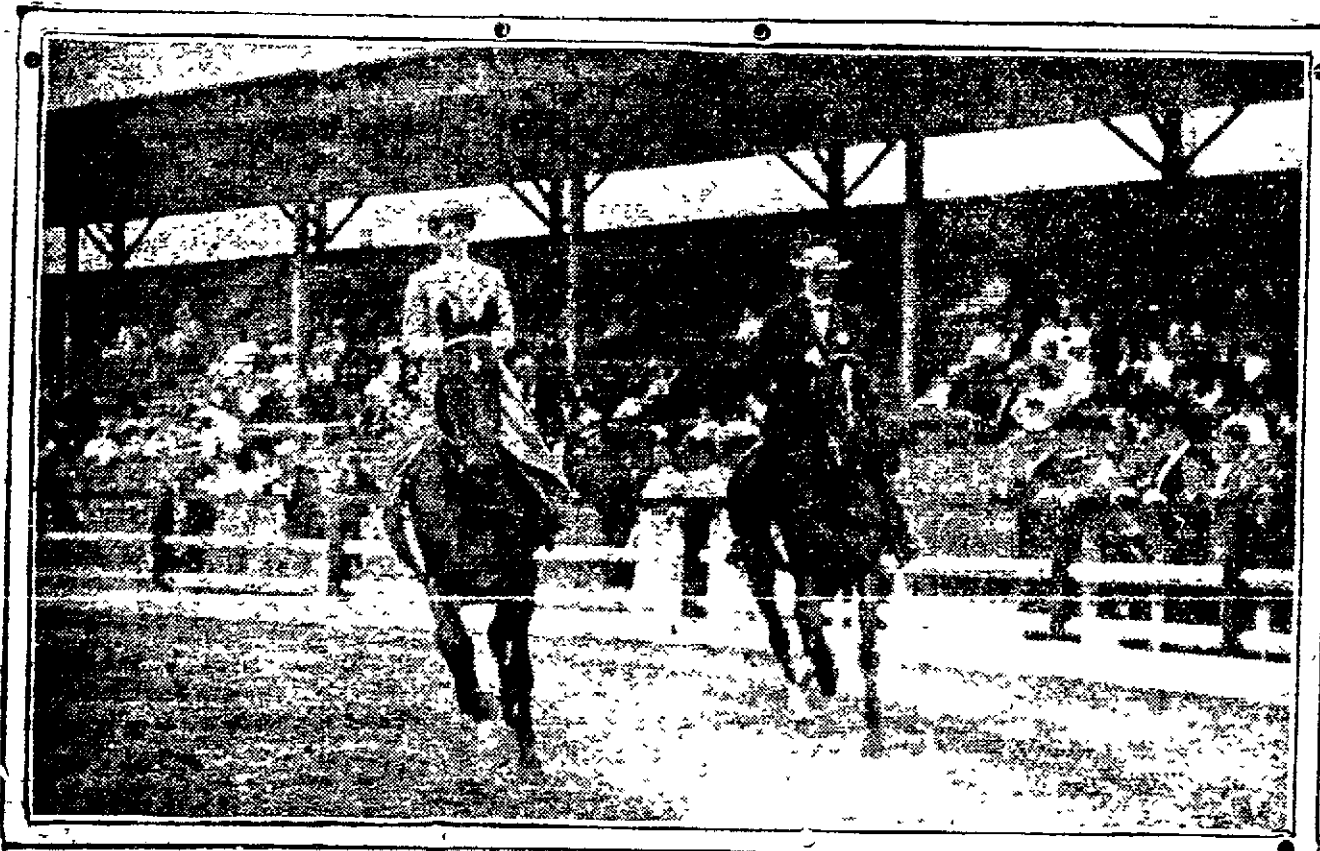

The lads from Sharon went down to defeat before Joe Locke's superior twirling and although Noah, the ex-Nocks' star, was in very fair form, and effective in a pinch, yet his support was not what it should have been. Patterson and Matteson's errors in the fourth, the only inning in which any runs were made, being largely responsible for the two scores which were captured by the home lads.

The lads who lead the O. P. league appeared in their dazzling new uniforms of pearl gray with caps to match, both done in blue trimming, and just to show their appreciation did the proper thing by trimming their down-east opponents.

Shortly before play was called they lined up in front of the grand stand and in a sitting position had their pictures "taken."

Pumpkin, the south paw, from Nelsonville, assisted in the preliminary practice and looks as if he ought to make good. He will be given a try.

C. W. WATSON'S RINGING BELLS IS BEST GIG HORSE.

SADDLE HORSES IN THE RING.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 22.—Chief among the incidents of interest at the horse show was the defeat of Newsboy, Mrs. John Gerken's veteran winner. Ringing Bells, entered by C. W. Watson of Baltimore, proved the victor. The competition was in the gig class, and Mrs. Gerken had won two legs on the $200 Windsor Cup, in 1904 and 1905, and if she had gained the first award today the cup would have become her personal property. Ringing Bells won the competition last summer.

While Second Is Called With Only One Man Down in First Half of Seventh.

Lancaster, July 22.—The first game of the double header which closed the Newark series, was opened at 2 p. m. Saturday with Justus and Fox in the points for Lancaster and Asher and Pearce officiating for Newark. The attendance was large.

The first game lasted 12 innings and the second seven. The Lanks outbatted the visitors in the first, Fox was put out the grounds in the second game for disputing an umpire's decision.

In the first game, with a score of 1 to 1 in the 12th, Gigh drew a pass and was sacrificed to second by Pearce and scored on Asher's single. Lancaster was unable to score. The score:

FOUR TEAMS WANT PEARCE

Catcher Pearce of Indianapolis, who is a member of the Newark team, states a dispatch from Columbus, is a bone of contention for several big league clubs.

The Chicago National league baseball club offered $2,500 for Pearce, but as several major league clubs are

BUNNY PEARCE.

after him it is not known whether the Cubs will land him.

The Detroit Tigers think they have a deal closed for him next season, while Barney Dreyfuss asserts he has first claim on him. Jack Houston, a St. Louis scout, was also after him.

Pearce is batting .312 for Newark and it is his batting largely that is keeping the team in first place in the pennant race.

DOPE FROM THE SMOKY CITY

Newark still leads the O. P. pennant race, states the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Several weeks ago they forged to the front and forced the Youngstown Champions from first place, piling up a record number of victories and holding onto the coveted place with a firm grip. Without doubt, much of the success of the team is due to the sensational work of Catcher Pearce. He has been doing wonderful work behind the bat, while his batting has been hard and opportune. He has attracted a number of major league scouts to Newark and the universal decision has been that the big fellow is ready for faster company. It was reported that the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Chicago Nationals and Detroit Americans are after him. It is quite probable that he will be sold before long, but the manager of the team has promised the fans that he will not be allowed to leave the team until the pennant is won or lost. Youngstown and Akron have been fighting hard for runner-up honors in the O. P. Both have been playing good ball and it is a toss up which will emerge victorious. Neither is far behind Newark and before many weeks have passed there promises to be some changes in the standing of the teams.

DIAMOND DUST.
Well, we took the first and it was not hard work, either.
In the first game with Lancaster Saturday it took twelve innings to decide it, Newark winning out 2 to 1. The Molders haven't lost an extra inning game this season.

One of the best umpires in the minor league world quit the game last week because there is not enough money in the business. According to President Morton his work has been the best of any umpire in the league.

The Lanks took a slump in their batting during the series with Newark.

Lewis Bruce, the Indian, who who played with Columbus last season, and who was sold to Newark and failed to report has been released by the Birmingham, N. Y., team.

Jimmy Wall, who played right field with the Molders the first of the season and who was released by them, has been signed and reported to the Washington club of the P. O. M.

The Newark fans who accompanied the team to Lancaster Friday and Saturday made a cleaning, bringing back about $1,000 of Lancaster coin.

Lefty Snyder was presented with a fine umbrella and a sweater by his Newark admirers Saturday in the first game with the Lanks.

The Lancaster baseball club needs a little long green and they are going to give a benefit next Saturday to test the enthusiasm of the baseball fans.

The Toledo Blade announced the results of the Milwaukee-Toledo game Sunday by sending up a balloon. It had a big red streamer attached to it and this meant that Toledo won. If there had been no streamer the Mad Hens would have lost.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1906, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alternative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best, always. This is our advice.

That was a great game at Marion Saturday when it took 20 innings to decide the contest with the Mansfield Tigers, and undoubtedly will stand as the season's record in the 20th chapter of energetic endeavor Mansfield's Delehanly was declared safe at the plate. The decision was a close one and the Marion crowd kicked with remarkable vigor, considering the length of time the perspiration had been evading. Thus the score, 2 to 1, was a monument for the perseverance of the boys from the town where the state of Ohio keeps its reformatory.

MR. DUM IMPROVING

Mr. E. F. Dum, father of Mr. Harry Dum, both of Lancaster, was in the city Monday on business. He reports that his son, who met with such a serious accident, having had his leg broken and foot mashed up in a runaway recently, is now getting along and is in a fair way to recovery.

At first the physicians despaired of saving his leg, but Mr. Dum's splendid physique pulled him through the critical stage.

Both father and sons are Elks, and the son is particularly well known and popular here, as he was foreman on the iron work construction of the new Sherwood Hotel. His friends, while pained to hear of his injuries, are all pleased to know that he is rapidly convalescing.

Says William J. Bryan, But Ultimate United States Will Control These Common Carriers.

Lincoln, Neb., July 22.—In a statement made Saturday by William J. Bryan under the heading, "Government Ownership Not an Issue," Mr. Bryan says:

"Government ownership is not an immediate issue. A large majority of the people still hope for effective regulation. While they so hope, they will not consider ownership. While many Democrats believe (and I am one of them) that public ownership of railroads is the ultimate solution of the problem, still those who believe that the public will finally in self-defense be driven to ownership, recognize that regulation must be tried under the most favorable circumstances before the masses will be ready to try a more radical remedy.

"Regulation cannot be sufficiently tried within the next year. There is no desire anywhere to make Government ownership an issue in 1908. I fully agree with those who believe that it would be unwise to turn attention from regulation, on which the people are not ready to act, and to inject the Government ownership question into the next campaign would simply give representatives of the railroads a chance to dodge the issue of regulation and deceive the public.

"So far the railroads have been successful in preventing effective Federal regulation, and state regulation has as a rule been restrained by the United States courts. It is about 20 years since the Interstate Commerce commission was created. It required about ten years for the courts to find out that the powers conferred were insufficient, and then it took about ten years to secure an amendment. The railroads fought the amendment at every step, and the President was finally forced to compromise with the railroads in the Senate to secure their support. Even that amendment, secured with tremendous effort, falls short of what it should be. It aims to stop passes and rebates. The railroads profit peculiarly by both the stoppage of rebates and the prohibition of passes, but extortion rates still exist. State legislation for the reduction of rates has resulted in an agitation on the part of the railroads for legislation which will deprive the state of authority and centralize all rate legislation in Congress.

"The Democratic party must meet the issue presented; it must resist the encroachments upon the authority of the states. It must insist upon the exercise of the Federal power for the regulation of interstate commerce, and it must insist upon the exercise of state authority for the exercise of all of the power vested in the state.

"The question has grown in importance during the past year, and its prominence will be increased if any attempt is made to impair state authority. The Republican party is as impotent to regulate the railroads as it is to exterminate the trusts and to reform the tariff.

"The Democratic party has in three national campaigns demanded effective railroad regulation, while the Republican national platforms have been silent upon the subject. The President has partially adopted the Democratic view on this subject, but so far the Republican leaders have resolutely opposed it. The President is helping to educate the people up to the need of railroad regulation, but his party, under its present leadership, is powerless to accomplish this or any other important reform. If the Democratic party will clearly and unequivocally demand, first, the ascertaining of the value of all the railroads; the preventing of overcapitalization, and third, the reduction of rates to a point where they will yield only a reasonable return upon the real value of the roads—if the party will do this it will commend itself not only to Democrats, but to those Republicans who have been led to study the railroad question. The railroad situation presents a vital issue, and the issue should be so stated that every one can understand the party's position."

Posse After Negro.

Macon, Miss., July 22.—Mayes Hunter, son of a prominent railroad contractor of this city, was shot and killed by Albert Carr, a negro, at Aliceville, Ala., and a posse of several hundred citizens are in pursuit of Carr. The negro, it is stated, was creating a disturbance, and Hunter was killed while he was endeavoring to quiet him.

A Letter From Dad.

Dear wife, I cannot tell you how I've missed you since you went away. The home is very lonesome now. When did you put my suit of gray? With none to greet me at the door. With heavy heart I tread the blocks that homeward lead; I miss you more. But, say, where did you hide my socks? How still and dull the house appears! I miss the sunlight of your eyes. The weeks you've been away seem years. What has become of all my ties? I hope you will enjoy yourself. But do not mingle with the flirts. I've hunted every closet shelf. Wherever you keep my shirts? And now I've told you all the news. There's nothing more for me to write. Except, where did you hide my shoes? They are not anywhere in sight. —Detroit Free Press.

MAN KILLED

BY A PENNSYLVANIA FREIGHT TRAIN EARLY MONDAY NEAR HANOVER.

Nothing Found on His Person by Which He Could be Identified—May be From Columbus.

At about 4 o'clock Monday morning a Pennsylvania freight train, west bound, hit a man that was walking on the track at a point about a mile west of Hanover. He was instantly killed. The engineer of the freight train says that he saw the man about in place of time to give him warning, and that he tried to whistle him off the track.

The body was brought to Newark and turned over to Undertaker Jas. McGonagle.

The unfortunate victim is a man apparently 35 or 40 years of age, fairly well dressed. His hands bore no marks of work, but from certain insignia found on his handkerchief it is thought that he might be a blacksmith.

He was hit on the head, which evidently caused his death being instantaneous, both legs were broken, but otherwise the body was not mangled. From a check found in his pocket bearing the name of a Columbus firm, 138 North High street, he may be from that city. No other articles were found whereby he may be identified.

He is a blonde, shows signs of being well kept recently, is about 5 feet 3 1-2 inches tall, and weighs about 135 pounds.

IN POLICE COURT.

Three offenders were up before his honor, Mayor McCleary, Monday morning, one charged with fighting, one with stealing a drink on a B. and O. passenger and one drunk and disorderly. The first named drew $10 and costs which were paid, the second $5 and costs and was sent to the stone pile, while the third drew $10 and costs and was committed to the county jail.

Officer Dr. Roberts, the efficient B. & O. special officer, returned from Philadelphia Sunday where he had been assigned by the company to assist their officers during the recent Elk convention. The doctor states that he thoroughly enjoyed his visit and was never treated better in his life. While there he took a run down to Atlantic City and after a dip in the salt waters of the Atlantic, participated in a big clam bake as the guest of the local lodge of horned antlers.

Acting Chief Bell Monday morning received a card from Chief Sheridan written on board the big steamer Mackinac and mailed at Port Huron. The card did not state when the Chief would return but it is quite likely that he will be here some time Tuesday.
